IN THE REALM OF THE FEMININE

Do You Fence?

SOME BEAUTY DOCTORS advocate swimming as the best beauty exercise, others fencing. Personally, I believe swimming will develop you better than fencing, but this latter ing the arms in constant movement, with the light weight of the weapon, will do more than any other exercise to give you well-rounded, white, firm arms. The thrust and parry and feint of the game—or battle, if you choose to call it so—will keep you bending and twisting, jumping forward and back, bringing into play every muscle in the body.

It is an especially fine exercise for fat women, it will take off tens of pounds, and give them an agility they never dreamed of possessing.
And it is wonderful for the complexion.

There are books about fencing that will give the student a fair idea of the game, but for real sport and exercise you should fence with a competent instructor, and finally with others in the same class with you. The swift exercise of this once a week, followed each time by a warm, then a cool, shower bath, should put you into splendid condition. Try it!

Try to get up a fencing class among your friends. If there is no regular teacher in your community, there will surely be some man versed in sword play to help you.
Or, get a fencing master from some neighboring town to travel down for the afternoon's instruction. It would not be expensive.

Questions and Answers

Should the teeth in the upper and lower jaw form an even line in the profile? My chin is receding, my lower teeth are quite a bit back of the upper ones. Can this condition be corrected?—May Gould.

Reply—The teeth should form an even line in the profile—this is what makes skeletons seem to grin. I would go to a dentist, if I were you, to see whether the lower teeth could be moved to make the chin seem less receding. A plastic surgeon can help if the trouble is with the bone formation.

Two weeks ago I asked for your recipe for face cream. Have not seen it yet—perhaps missed it, as I did not see two issues since. Did you print it? I signed myself F. P. A.

Reply—I believe I answered, asking you to send me a self-addressed stamped envelope, since the recipe is too long to publish here.

SEEKING SUCCESS IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Making good in any line of work demands far more than intelligence alone. That is necessary, of course, but it is not always the persons with the most intelligence who reach the top of the ladder of success, but those who have the most dogged perseverance and dauntless spirit.

We all want to make good in our life's work. We all would like to be the ones pointed out to others as models of success, but unfortunately, very few of us have the traits necessary to achieve our desire.

The autumn which is drawing near each day will see many thousands of young men and women starting out to climb that ladder to success. In the spring, schools and colleges all over the country send out their graduates to begin their struggle for recognition, and for their livelihoods. This autumn, as in every year, sees the first steps taken by these young men and women filled with eagerness and anxiety as to their future work.

How many will reach the top, and how many fall by the way? You young women, who are now sitting dreaming of the careers you are about to commence in the near future, must determine now the stand you will take in your struggle for success.

All failures.

Will you belong to the class who lose hope and become discouraged and downhearted at the first disappointment? Will you be one of the kind that complain of their bad luck and point to more successful competitors as examples of what good luck can do? Will you drop to the bottom of the ladder of success and stay there the first time any one steps on your fingers?

If there is any instinct in you which tells you that you belong to any one of these classes you may as well relinquish all idea of ever making a career, for all three kinds belong to a big class called failures.

If, however, you are prepared to make every failure of yours teach you a lesson on what not to do next time, if you are determined to make every disappointment a spur to greater effort, if you are willing to pick yourself up and begin all over again every time some one else kicks you off the ladder to success, then you have a good chance of reaching your goal.

Intelligence is by no means all that is needed in your struggle for recognition. Steady, unswerving purpose, perseverance, indefatigable work, dauntless courage to withstand all blows to self, impregnable ambition, these are even more needed than plain intelligence. If you have all these you already have intelligence of a high order and are bound to be successful.

When Disappointments Come.

Above all what you must learn not to let disappointments down you. As one of the humorists of our times declares: "Nothing can keep a fellow down who won't be downed." And that is the determination you must carry with you into the fight—that nothing can keep you down.

Do not let yourself be misled by others' talk of luck. There is in reality no such thing, bad or good luck. You make your own luck, first by the actual, tireless work you do; next by thinking success all the time, by not allowing the thought of possible failure to enter your head.

We are told by scientists that everything that comes to pass must first be lived mentally; that before any one can achieve success he first must have success in his mind.

Of course, you must not think from this that all you have to do in order to achieve success is to think it. That is, like intelligence, but a small part of your task. You must work, first of all, keeping the idea of success ever present and the determination to let no effort on your part be spared to keep you from your goal.

Enter on your fight for a career with determination and the right spirit and do not let yourself be kept down.

OF THE YOUNG MAN

There was a young man, it was said, one time,
Who went astray in his youthful prime.

Can the brain keep cool and the heart keep quiet
When the blood is a river that's running riot?

And "Boys will be boys," the old folks say,
And "The man's the better who's had his day."

The sinner reformed, and the preacher told Of the prodigal son who came back to the fold;

And the Christian people threw open their door,
With a warmer welcome than ever before.

Wealth and honor were his to commend,
And a spotless woman gave him her hand.

While the world strewed their pathway with flowers abloom, Crying, "God bless the bride and God bless the groom!"

OF THE YOUNG WOMAN

There was a maiden who went astray In the golden dawn of her life's young day.

She had more passion and heart than head
And followed blindly where fond love led;

And love, unchecked, is a dangerous guide
To wander at will by a fair girl's side.

The woman repented and turned from sin, But—no door opened to let her in.
The preacher prayed that she might be forgiven,
But told her to look for mercy—in Heaven.

For this is the law of the earth, we know, That the woman is scorned, while the man may go.
A brave man wedded her, after all, But the world said, frowning, "We shall not call."
